Reindeer engineering contract

Apache Corporation (NYSE, Nasdaq: APA) said today that it has signed a contract with Clough Projects Australia for engineering, procurement and fabrication at the Devil Creek Development Project near Dampier in Western Australia. The onshore facility will process natural gas produced from the offshore Reindeer Field.

Signing the engineering and procurement contract satisfies a requirement in the Reindeer partners' agreement to supply approximately 154 billion cubic feet of gas over seven years to CITIC Pacific's Sino Iron project beginning in the second half of 2011. Apache operates Reindeer and owns a 55-percent interest in the field; Santos Ltd owns the remaining interest.

The gas will be supplied through a new, 65-mile offshore pipeline and a new onshore sales gas processing facility at Devil Creek, about 28 miles southwest of Dampier, with capacity to process 210 million cubic feet of gas per day. Apache plans to sell additional production from the Reindeer field to other domestic customers in Western Australia.
